AimBank announces acquisition of two new branches in Pampa and Shamrock

AimBank is proud to announce the acquisition of the National Bank of Commerce Pampa and Shamrock branches from the First National Bank (FNB) of Waupaca, Wisconsin. These two branches will complement AimBank's existing footprint in the Panhandle. AimBank also serves the South Plains, Permian Basin and Big Country regions of West Texas with 14 branch locations to choose from.

"These are exciting times for AimBank as it provides us with deeper roots in the area," remarked Scott Wade, Chief Executive Officer. "AimBank is committed to the growth in our communities through helping local business stay viable and strong. Our Business Bankers are equipped with the expertise on Real Estate, Agriculture and Energy lending; it is a natural fit with the similarity of the rural locations we operate within." AimBank is totally dependent on the markets we serve and our goal is to put dollars back in the communities we serve.

"Our commitment to our customers comes first," stated Jerry Foote NBC Pampa Senior Vice President. "The merger with AimBank will continue to align us with the same West Texas principals that we have been serving our customer base with over the last 31 years I have been in Pampa. This is a very exciting time for our Pampa and Shamrock locations to move forward for another 31 years."

Sonny Hilburn, NBC Shamrock Senior Vice President stated "He is very excited that someone of AimBank's financial strength and committed devotion to customer service has chosen to acquire these two branches. They truly understand West Texas and are committed to putting money back in our local communities. They have great expertise with agriculture and energy lending."

AimBank will maintain a strong tradition of offering quality banking services while keeping up with the latest technology for our ever-changing customer needs. The new banking locations combined with an ATM network with more than 500 Stripes Convenience Store locations in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma provides previous National Bank of Commerce customers with new added conveniences and services.

AimBank expects the acquisition and conversion to be completed during the first quarter of 2015.

About AimBank
